

Call for papers

The "Two Quarterly of Islamic Research", invites academicians, to send their original research, in English.

Today, Islam and Islamic resources have been the subject of many researches in various universities and academic centers of the world and have drawn attention of the scholars, students and researchers of various branches of human sciences, to the extent that in addition to the common research methods in the humanities, Empirical and interdisciplinary approaches have also come to the domain of Islamic studies and have provided a variety of backgrounds for creating new and effective works in this area.

Hence, the innovative scholars, all over the world are invited to contribute to the writing scientific and academic papers in various Islamic areas. The submitted papers will be evaluated by international academic judges and then published at due time. For instructions on how to write the article and its acceptance criteria, please refer to the journal's website:

Jir.icqt.ac.ir

The Topics include the following:

1. Qur'an Studies
2. Hadith Research
3. Islamic culture and civilization
4. History of Islam
5. Islamic Sciences

Isfahan University of Qur'an and Etrat Studies

Islamic Research Journal office